You Deserve Compensation for your Accident Injuries

Our legal system attempts to compensate victims for the injuries they have suffered.

Damages may include:

- Special Damages – These are damages that can often be itemized, such as medical expenses, lost wages, related property damage, and the like.
- General Damages – These damages include pain and suffering, loss of consortium, emotional distress, and the like.

The amount of compensation you may receive will depend on the severity of your injuries and the specific amount of loss you suffered.

Once Chance to Get It Right

Under Florida law, you have a specific amount of time to bring your claim of personal injury. When you and the party that caused you harm reach a settlement, you are often barred from bringing additional claims for the same injury even if the injury worsens or requires additional treatment. That is why it is essential to have the aid of a skilled injury attorney who can guide you through the steps of receiving compensation for your injuries.
